The Palestinian Authority Financed “Fatah” Branch Activities from its Official Budget

Abstract

1. Documents captured in Ramallah clearly indicate that the Palestinian Authority funneled money from its official budget, which is financed mainly by Arab and European states, to Fatah and Tanzim branches in the West Bank. In this manner, the PA created an infrastructure of terror activists in dozens of local branches.
2. The money was drawn from the PA's salaries account and transferred via Marwan Barghouti's office to tens of provincial Fatah branches and sub-branches in the West Bank.
3. A section on financing Fatah activities is not stipulated in the PA's official budget, which is supposed to be transparent vis-a-vis the European Union and the IMF. The implication is that there are surpluses in the PA's salaries budget and some of the funds are directed to other purposes.
4. The systematic financing of the Fatah organization from the PA budget, which is proved by the photocopied checks dated 1998-99, continued also through 2000-

01, and was probably even increased during the course of the confrontation with Israel.

The PA Financed Fatah Activities with Money Taken from its Official Budget

1. Documents captured in Marwan Barghouti's office clearly show that the PA financed the activities of Fatah branches in the West Bank, as well as of other organizations operating in the framework of Fatah, from its official budget. In this manner, the PA created an infrastructure of terror activists in dozens of local branches.
2. The money was drawn from the PA's salaries account (account number 01810058/4) kept at the Al-Urdan bank, a Jordanian bank operating in the West Bank (Bank of Jordan P.L.C.). These details were found on over 60 checks dated 1998-99, their photocopies and transfer method were uncovered in Ramallah. The entire process was carried out in Marwan Barghouti's office, and his signature appears on the letters addressed to the bank approving the withdrawal of money by Fatah activists.
3. The money was funneled from the PA salaries account and used for periodic financing of tens of Fatah and Fatah/Tanzim provincial branches and sub-branches in the West Bank. In the same manner, financing was provided for the branches of the "Shabiba" movement (a Fatah youth movement) and for branches of the movement's student associations in colleges such as Bir Zeit. The allocations range between 3,500-17,500 NIS (approximately $750-4,300 based on an exchange rate of NIS 4.1 to the dollar).
4. This systematic financing, which is proven by the series of checks from 1998-99, continued also during 2000-2001. It is reasonable to assume that during the course of the confrontation with Israel the scope of the financing has increased due to the growing expenditure of Fatah/ Tanzim whose activists perpetrated a considerable number of terror attacks.

5. The PA salaries budget in the framework of the PA's overall budget is intended for funding the salaries of the PA's official security apparatuses as well as the civilian offices. There is no article concerning the financing of the Fatah organization in the PA's official budget. This means that there is extra money in the PA's salaries budget which is diverted to other purposes. It is emphasized that the PA budget is supposed to be transparent vis-a-vis the EU, which finances about 10 percent of the Palestinian budget, and the IMF which oversees its management.
6. The Arab states and the EU started to finance a significant part of the PA's current budget since the end of 2000. Between 1998-99, they did not finance the current budget, however this does not lessen the seriousness of the financial moves carried out by the PA.
7. The documents prove that the money transferred to the Fatah, authorized by the highest echelons of the PA, is openly and systematically drawn from the PA budget. It is noteworthy that Palestinian spokesmen have tried to deny this, claiming that the payment orders approved by Arafat are taken from Fatah funds.
